

ePublishing News Site and Newsletter

Aimed mainly at book publishers and authors, the FirstyNews website brings all the latest information on ePublishing into one place – categorised, tagged and sourced from the best resources on the web. It also features original content written by Firsty staff and other industry specialists, and is becoming a popular source of news and commentary on developments and trends in the ePublishing world.

Linked to the website is the Firsty newsletter, mailed to hundreds of subscribers every month. It carries news not only about Firsty, but also about events in the ePublishing industry in general.

FEATURES

The FirstyNews website provides:

- an informative 15-minute video about the Firsty Group, giving you a practical guide to eBook selling, eBook conversion and app development
- topical articles and commentary on issues facing the ePublishing industry, written by Firsty staff
- articles drawn from a range of industry sources relating to current trends and events in ePublishing
- a superb newsfeed service, keeping you completely up to date with developments in the industry
- facilities to share articles and information on the website with friends and colleagues via email, twitter, Facebook and other means
- a glossary of terms now commonly used in digital publishing
- a calendar of events in digital publishing taking place around the world
- an archive of all Firsty newsletters produced to date

Our newsletter provides:

- a monthly digest of information on what's happening in ePublishing
- an update on major developments within the Firsty Group
- a facility for readers to contribute to articles and comments
- a direct link to our FirstyNews website, as well as to our FirstyWork and FirstyFish websites

We welcome contributions – articles, comments, information – to our newsletter from anyone involved in the ePublishing industry, from publishers, literary agents and authors to eBook consultants, converters and booksellers

FirstyNews: ePublishing news
www.firstynews.com

Rosalyn Webb, Business Development Manager, Nottingham University Press, says: "Keep up the good work – I do enjoy reading your newsletters!"

